Recent academic interests:

1. He has special interest in peace and conflict resolution studies and has established Trust for Global Peace in 2005. The Trust is purely non-profit, non-governmental, social, educational, and cultural organization, established for identifying and studying problems that threaten the survival and welfare of human race such as population growth, global warming, expanding ozone gap, environmental degradation, global water shortage, culture of conflict, violence and war, and exponential growth of means of violence and destruction including atomic weapons and other WMD.

2. He has special interest in electoral process in Pakistan and has published several papers on this subject. The book "State and Democracy in Pakistan" includes following chapters on this subject:

- i) "Election Malpractices: Pakistan Experience"
- ii) "Glimpses of the Presidential Referendum of 1984"
- iii) "Was the President Neutral in 1988 Elections?"
- iv) "Were the 1990 Elections Rigged?"
- v) "The 1993 Elections in Comparative Perspective"

II) A book on elections in Pakistan since 1950 is under preparation besides several unpublished papers listed below;

- i) "The Elections in Pakistan: A Review"
- ii) "Anatomy of Elections Rigging in Pakistan"
- iii) "The Role of Press in Evaluating Fairness" of '90 Elections"
- iv) "The Registration and Turnout of Voters in Elections in Pakistan"
- v) "Turnout in Elections in Pakistan and Other South Asian Countries"
